

MSRS Learning Outcomes

1. Appreciation for the complexities in defining sustainability and regeneration
2. Complex Awareness of Contemporary Environmental Issues
3. Understanding of Basic Physical Resources, Processes and Systems that Support Daily Life
4. Critically evaluate the role of individual and community practices in relation to sustainability
5. Understanding institutional structures at multiple scales for achieving sustainable living
6. Understand effective use of technology in meeting the needs and capacities of communities.
7. Ability to synthesize multiple disciplinary approaches to describe environmental problems and develop solutions
8. Ability to design and implement research or investigative methods for addressing questions that inform the knowledge base of regenerative studies